This is not meant to be used verbatim, but it's a loose structure of how an ideal call will flow. These questions are just an example of what KIND of questions you will ask where, what's most important is that you follow the STRUCTURE. Do not let the questions take away from the CONVERSATION you are having.

Fundamentals

- You have 2 objectives on the call. 1 is to understand their problem/pain and 2 is to position a 2nd call (with a closer) as the solution.
 - Don't overcomplicate it. Keep things simple, focus on LISTENING to the person, connecting with them and make them feel understood.

Question Examples:

Soft intro - neutral tonality

Hey is this CLIENT?

Hey CLIENT, it's just NAME from COMPANY NAME team... Saw you...responded to one of our videos about.. possibly becoming a remote setter, and ...I had a few minutes, so I thought I'd touch base and..see if I might be able to help. Got a few minutes?

Frame

Cool, so what I find works best on these calls, is just to get a better understanding of what's going on with you, and where you're trying to go, and then based on that I can either get you some more info, connect you with the right people, whatever would be most helpful for you. Cool?

Shot Across the bow (Intent)

When you saw that video, what caught your attention and..motivated you to reach out in the first place?

Situation

What do you do now?

How long?

Do you like...?

- (If yes, what do you like)
- 2 Truth (it seems like things are going fairly well, why even consider changing?)

Problem

What don't you like about it?

Clarify (what do you mean?/ Tell me more/ In what way? Can you elaborate)

You said "xyx" - what did you mean by that?

Anything else you don't like? (If needed)

Clarify (if asked previous)

Chunk down on the problem (optional)

Personal question - What impact has that had on you? In what way?

How long have you felt this way for? How long has this been going on?

How long have you been looking to change?

Can I ask you a personal question? Has that had an impact on you?

What's happening?

Solution Awareness

What have you tried/ looked in to?

Why not/how did it go? / What held you back?

Why is it so important to fix these problems now?/ after all this time what's got you keeping on keeping on?

You've been doing this for 8 years, sounds like you've really wanted to change, what's happening now to make this a priority?

Goals

Let's say you find a way to fix the problem, What would you need to make, to replace your current income?

- So you make x, now?

What's next for you? What's the bigger vision here?

Why is that goal important? What do you want to do with that kind of money? What kind of impact will that have on your life?

*Anything else?

Impact

How long has that been a goal?

How long until you get there with your current path?

- Challenge them if they give you a stupid answer
- Is that why you're possibly looking to make a change?
- *Why now though? - If necessary

(Transition to pitching the closing call)

Do you mind if I share some thoughts?

(Current state - hell island vs. Desire state - Heaven Island)

Honestly, based on what you're telling me, I think being a remote setter makes a ton of sense for you ...you know how you were saying (insert pain/problem) and how that's making you feel (insert how it's making them feel)

It sounds like more than anything you just (Insert what they want/goals) and I think you would do really well with Remote Setting because (what makes them a good fit for the program)

[SELL THEM ON THE OPPORTUNITY - REMOTE SETTING]

Pause - Is this something you can see yourself doing?

Pitch the Closing Call:

So what I think makes the most sense if for you to talk to one of our coaches - Their job is two things:

- They will be able to walk through all the specifics of remote setting and make sense of your goals, and really explain what a path into this industry will look like.
- And just to really get a deeper understanding of what you really want and if this makes sense for your life
- And if all the stars align, and they think you're a good fit, and this something you can really see yourself doing, that's when they'll go over investment and timeline.

How does that sound?

Great, I've X time tomorrow or X time tomorrow.
